An Opportunity of a Life Time. 200,000 Acres of Fine Agricultural Lands to Be So d on Nov. 4th, 1900, at Lo-

When the pioneers stood on the heights of the Rocky Mountains and looked down upon their future home they saw no gilded palace, not even a hut with an earthen floor. Theirs was an eternal carpet of sage with the sky for a canopy. In the midst of desolation they began their work of In the midst of reclamation; they cleared the ground, and soon the soil, parched and seared ages past, began to yield to their Waving fields of golden grain took the place of grizzled sages earthen floors and bare walls were anged to carpets and pictures, huts to houses, houses to mansions and alaces, toil to happy, prosperous la or, and poverty to wealth. Every rished church and school giving evidence that the principles of the pioneers' origin were the life of their maturity. Verily the desert been made to blossom like the

And from that time the good work has been kept up, and every year sees some hitherto worthless section of country brought under cultivation few years ago the land on the west side of Cache Valley was looked upon as practically worthless, now it stands first as a dry farm section, and every year produces thousands of bushels of wheat at a remarkably low cost when compared with the outlay in the irrigated districts. Judging from the character of the wheat, the size of the yield and the immense acreage of dry farm lands almost at our very doors, this hardy cereal will soon be driven from the irrigated sections and be found only within the dry that which means more for dry arming than anything that has been done for years, was the recent pur-chase of the Promontory and Curlew Ranch holdings in the Blue Creek and Curlew Valleys by Hon, Joseph Howell. This land is now being placed on the market on terms and conditions as set forth in another part of this paper, to which the attention of our readers is invited.

Dry farming in this section has passed the experimental stage. Men who a few years ago sold their small holdings in our cities and towns and cast their lots in this world of sage brush and desolation were criticized as having bad judgment by hundreds of their fellows. But they were undaunted. For years they had reason ed that something good would some time come from such an immense section of country. They had ridden over the rolling hills, and through beautiful valleys. They had carefully examined the soil and were firm in the beilef that time would reveal some of the best dry farms in the state. Hardy pioneers were they For years they have anticipated the future with anxious hearts. Today anticipation gives way to successful realization, and they find themselves within easy reach of an independent fortune, while the critic of a few years ago is still plodding along in the same old way, spending tomorrow what he makes today, and with no better prospects for accumulating ufficient means to sustain life and make home happy when old age crosses the threshold and declares that he cannot work any more. With the advantages the new town-site-HOWELL—the lots of which will soon be on the market-will ng, with church and school, and store, civilization into the heart of this wonderful field of possi-bility. With the chance to buy irri-gated lands to raise hay and vegetables, the opportunities offered by this company are unequalled in any other part of the state. There are no more such lands in the state. It is an op portunity the like of which in excel-lence will never occur again.

HAS BEEN REACHED BY CIVILIZED WORLD

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26 .- "The civilized world has indeed arrived at an era of low mortality."

This conclusion is stated in Census Bureau Bulletin 104, on mortality statistics for 1908, prepared by Dr. Cressy L. Wilbur, chief statistician for vital statistics under Director Durand, who has transmitted it to Secretary Nagel of the Department of Commerce and Labor, The death rate of the registration states in 1908 was 15.3 per 1,000 of population, which was slightly lower than that for the entire registration area, 15.4 per 1,000, and it is the lowest on record. Dr. Wilbur states it is probably the lowest death rate that has ever occured in the United States.

The death rate of the rural portions of these states was still lower, being only 14 per 1,000, while that of the urban population was 16.5 per 1,000; the latter including all cities having a population of 8,000 or more inhabitants in 1900, and being, as usual, somewhat greater than the rural rate Such rates would have seemed quite out of the question a few years ago. The death rate of England and Wales for 1908 was only 14.7 per 1,000 of population, and of London for the same year, 15.8 per 1,000. For each year since 1893 the death rate of England and Wales has been less than 16 per 1,000, with the exception of the year 1904, for which year it was 16.2 per 1,000, while no rate as low has been recorded for any previous years of registration.

The early publication of the data relating to the mortality of the year 1908 for the registration area of the returns from the state and city offices, registrations of deaths based upon the requirement of compulsory burial New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, registration cities in non-registration states, together with the registration states mentioned, made up the aggregate registraion area for 1908, whose total estimated population for the recommend that step year was 45,028,767, or over one-half this slaughter house. (51.8 per cent.) of the total estimated population of the continental United States, which was 86,874,990. The addition of Ohio for the year 1909 has still further increased the percentage of the population reporting to 55.2 per cent, and other areas may be included for the calendar year 1910, for which direct coparisons of the tality statistics can be made with the population enumerated by the thirteenth census. total number of deaths returned for the year 1908 from the aggre gate registration area was 691,574. For the preceding year the number of deaths was 687,034, or only 4.540 less than the 1908 returns, although the ergistration area for 1908 was increased by Washington and Wiscon The year 1908 was one of re markably low mortality throughout the United States, so far as can be determined from the available registration records, and was marked by a general absence of severe epidemics and of unusual mortality from other causes

Females contributed a slightly larger proportion of the deaths in 1908 than they did in 1907, but the actual number of deaths of males registered for 1908 was less than for 1907. The percentage of males was 54.3 and of females 45.7. The figures for age periods show a somewhat increased per cent of deaths of infants under one year for 1908, but the ratios for each of the individual years from 1 to 4 are identical for 1907 and 1908. close agreement appears in the subsequent five year periods, although there was a slightly more favorable showing for 1908 for the age periods from 15 to 49 years.

Nearly one-fifth of all the deaths that occurred were those of infants under one year of age and over one-fourth are of children less than five years of age. For both 1907 and 1908, 93.3 per cent of all deaths were those of white persons, which shows the unequal division of the registration area in this respect. Maryland is the only regis. tration state with a considerable proportion (23.6) per cent) of colored Nearly one-fourth of all deaths registered were those of persons born outside of the United States. The states having the largest proportion of native-born Americans of native stock are, Dr. Wilbur states, the ones in which it is the most difficult to secure the passage of effective regismortality of Americans of native parentage is not fully represented in the registration area, although over two-thirds of the deaths registered were of native-born persons and one third were of native born with native parents.

It appears that the month of maximum mortality in 1908 was January, with 67,763 deaths, and that of minimum mortality was June, with 49,701

The death rates of the individual registration states vary for the year 1908 from 18.4 for California to 10.1 for South Dakota. Dr. Wilbur points out that the total variation is less than that among the great towns of England and that the range of morality is not excessive.

With the exception of South Dakota, all the registration states for which data are presented for more than a single year, show larger rates for 1908 than 1907, and in several instances the rates for 1908 were the lowest on record, at least since fairly accurate registration has been in effect. For Massachusetts a comparison of the rates given in the state reports since 1851 shows that, with the single exception of the rate (16.3) in 1904, the rate (16.5) in 1908 is the lowest Then follow comparisons of the death rates of the cities of the United States with 100,000 population or over in 1930. Of the thirty-five cities con-sidered, a decreased death rate was shown in 1908 in all but five instances. The remainder of the bulletin is devoted to the consideration of causes of death, of occupations in relation to mortality, and contains the official English translation of the re vised list of causes of death arranged for use in mortality tables by international agreement at the decennial revision in Paris last July.

SHEEP RANGE DISPUTE IN PROVO CANYON SETTLED

Salt Lake, Oct. 26.-Disputes over grazing lands in the Provo canyon district are things of the past, according to R. V. R. Reynolds, supervisor of the Wasatch forest district Reynolds has returned from that district after making a careful survey for the benefit of the rangers of the forest service and sheep owners.

During the past few years there have been serious disputes over the boundary lines, and, owing to the in complete survey, it was not possible to decide just where the line was. The rangers had adopted an imaginary line and kept the sheep from going be yond that, respite the protest of the herders.

The conditions became so numerous that Mr. Reynolds decided to make a survey. Taking four men and some rangers, about two weeks ago, he started the survey. It was run be-tween the north fork of Provo canyon and Deer creek. The line proved to be but a short distance from the imaginary line adopted by the rangers

LOGAN COMPANY TO START MULE FARM

Salt Lake, Oct. 26.-A mule farm for the rearing and selling of work mules is to be started in the lowlands even miles west of Logan. The first steps in the opening of the farm were taken yesterday, when a company of local men took over 2000 acres of grazing land and closed a deal for 300 brood mares. Barns will be erected at once and the raising of mules will be begun. The company which will manage the farm is headed by Williard P. Funk, S. L. Richardson and C. F. Huffman. The company is capitalized for $300,000, $200,000 which are to be sold at once. The remaining $100,000 wil remain in the treasury.

CANNON BALKS AT WATERWAY PLAN

In a speech at Carlo, Mr. Cannon balked at the President's proposition to Issue bonds to pay for the im-should be carried on only as rapidly as it can be paid for out of the current funds in the treasury. The speakers address followed one by the president, in which Mr. Taft reiterated his position in favor of deep waterways where it can be demonstrated that the plans for improvement are feasible, are necessary and can be carried to completion with too great expenditure of money.

After 24 hours on the river, the Taft party arrived at Hickman this afternoon. Mr. Taft spoke from a stand erected on the levee.

The president tonight was the guest governors, who are making the trip down the river on the steamer St. Paul which immediately follows the Oleander. He had been invited to dinner last night but was so fatigued and worn out from the efforts of speaking several time that he begged to be excused until this afternoon The St. Paul was brought up in midstream alongside the President boat this evening and lashed there while he and his party were con ducted on board. TOTAL STEEL EARNINGS.

New York, Oct. 26.-The total earnings of the Steel corporation for the quarter in 1908 were $27,106,274, with net earnings of $21,310,417 and a surplus for the quarter of $5,152,023. The volume of unfilled orders on hand Sept. 30, 1908, was 3,421,977

The statement of the quarter made public today shows an appropriation of $10,000,000 from the surplus on ac ount of expenditures made or to be made for authorized additional property, new plants, construction and discharge of capital obligations.

The $10,000,000 appropriation is the first of this kind made by the U. S.

Steel corporation since the quarter ending Dec. 31, 1907, when $6,000,000 was set aside for the same purposes. Chairman Gary had nothing to add to the formal statement except to deny the report that he had opposed a consolidation of the independent steel and iron companies. He added that he knew nothing of such a projest. The surplus for the present quarter, after deducting interest on bonds, ap propriations to sinking funds and di-vidends on the preferred and common stock, shows a total of $12,155,-113. Ten millions of this is laid aside for extra expendiures made and to be made, additional property, new plants, etc., leaving a net surplus of $2,155, 113 for the quarter.

erican teams selected by that many what extent they disagree in some respects, writes Otto Floto in The ver Post. There are only two or three positions on which they all agree. One seems to be first base, which is conceded by all of them to Hal Chase of the New York Americans, and the other is the pitchers Mathewson and Brown, with Ed Walsh in the majorof the make-up. On all other positions they disagree.

For instance, Bozeman and Bulger picks Gibson as catcher, so does An-son. Sunday picks Bresnahan, so does Ed Crane, Clarke Griffith picks McLean of Cincinnati. Then we get to second baseman and that lays with the different selectors between Collins of the Athletics, Evers of Chicago, Miller of Pittsburg and Doyle of New York. At shortstop Bulger and An-son select Wagner, while Griffith and two others place Tinker at the head. On third base Devlin of New York for Bozeman, Lord of Boston for An-son, Steinfelt for Sunday and so on down the line. All with the exception of Griffith, select Ty Cobb for his position, but Griff gives it to Mitchell of Cincinnati. They all seem to select Speaker of Boston as one of the really great fielders, and Leach and Crawford have the others divided. With the real experts of the game,
